For Immediate Release:

Angelica Creek Park Environmental Education Center Groundbreaking

Reading, PA — On Friday, April 23rd at 12:00PM, the City of Reading and partners will break ground on the new Angelica Creek Park Environmental Education Center at the site of the vacant boathouse at Angelica Park. Learn about the new Environmental Education Center and Angelica Park, the newest segment of the Angelica Creek Trail and the new camp started this summer by the Berks Conservancy for elementary school age children - Eco Adventure Camp.

Light lunch will be served. Rain or Shine.

About the Angelica Creek Trail

Angelica Creek Trail connects to Kenhorst Borough, Angelica Creek Park and the Schuylkill River Trail. Users can walk, bike, and enjoy the wonderful pathway to the city owned Angelica Creek Park and into the City of Reading.

About Eco Adventure Camp

Eco-Adventure Camp is located at Alvernia University and Angelica Park in Reading from June 14th through August 20th. Camp has a diverse menu of offerings to reach the child who already loves the outdoors and those who prefer more technological or creative activities. Campers will have fun and learn more about how they can live “green” and protect our environment and will grow their understanding of and commitment to the stewardship of our earth.
